Fractal property of my work

I'm dealing with the problem of localization, a little technique in EnKF. But this problem deeply roots in statistics, namely sampling error. And I try to solve this problem with machine learning, which leads me to the framework of probabilistic machine learning and Bayesian Inference. While in turn, EnKF is a branch of Bayesian Inference.